Spotlight On:

Meagan Kimick, Teen Librarian Trainee

When you have 30 minutes of free-time, how do you pass the time?

Typically I'm trying to consume a book through some medium, whether that be hardcover, e-book, or audiobook. If I'm not doing that, I'm playing with my cat, Murphy.

If you could be any fictional character, who would you choose?

Alex Claremont-Diaz from Red, White, and Royal Blue by Casey McQuiston.

What is your favorite thing about working at the Library?

Building strong relationships with the teens here. I love being able to learn about their lives, give them advice, and joke around with them.

What's the coolest or most important trend you see today?

The resurgence of prioritizing physical media! Printing photos, writing down recipes, using CDs. We've become so dependent on the cloud, streaming, and digital media that one broken phone could erase so many important things.

Lightning-round questions:

- Fiction or non-fiction? Fiction (but a few times a year, I get into a nonfiction kick!)
- Horror or comedy? Horror
- Ebook or Hardback? Hardback
- Marvel or DC? Dexter
- Vanilla or Chocolate? Chocolate!
- Zoom or In-house? In-house
- Adult or Young Adult? YA, duh!

BOOK DISCUSSIONS

The Glass Ocean by Beatriz Williams
Wednesday, March 5, 2:30 pm - 4 pm,
IN-PERSON & 7 pm - 8:30 pm, VIRTUAL

This captivating work of historical fiction weaves together the lives of three compelling female protagonists across two time periods. In 1915, amidst the backdrop of World War I and the sinking of the Lusitania, Caroline, a wealthy socialite, and Tessa, a clever con artist, navigate their intertwining stories. Fast forward to 2013, where Sarah Blake, a struggling author, uncovers a mysterious family report connected to the ill-fated steamship and embarks on a journey to uncover the truth.

Little Fires Everywhere by Celeste Ng
Wednesday, April 2, 2:30 pm - 4 pm,
IN-PERSON & 7 pm - 8:30 pm, VIRTUAL

In the seemingly idyllic and orderly suburb of Shaker Heights, near Cleveland, the Richardson family leads a picture-perfect life. Everything changes with the arrival of Mia Warren, an enigmatic artist and single mother, who moves into town with her teenage daughter and rents a house from the Richardsons. Mia's mysterious past and unconventional ways disrupt the community's carefully maintained status quo. Tensions escalate when close friends of the Richardsons attempt to adopt a Chinese-American baby, dividing the town and pitting Elena Richardson against Mia on opposing sides. With brilliance and beauty, Celeste Ng examines the complexities of motherhood, the power of identity, and the peril of believing that strict adherence to rules can prevent disaster.

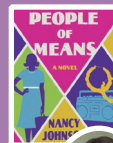

VIRTUAL AUTHOR VISIT

Nancy Johnson

Wednesday, April 9, 7 pm - 8:30 pm

Nancy Johnson discusses her latest novel, People of Means. In 1959, Freida began university and was unexpectedly drawn into protests for social change. Initially hesitant, she gradually reconsiders her stance but must make a life-altering decision that will shape her future. Decades later, during the racial tensions following the Rodney King trial, her daughter Tulip faces her own crossroads. This thought-provoking and memorable work of historical fiction spans two pivotal eras—the 1960s and 1990s—through the intertwined stories of a mother and daughter, both in pursuit of justice and their life's aspirations during times of social change.
